PEACE CONFERENCE

WILL PROBABLY BE HELD

Lord Lansdowne Replies in Conditional Terms to the Invitation of the Czar

London, Oct. 4.—Lord Lansdowne today replied to the Russian invitation to Great Britain to be represented at a second peace conference at The Hague, accepting it in principle, but deferring the final decision until fully informed regarding the questions proposed to be discussed. St. Petersburg, Oct. 5.—The Russian Government has received a large number of replies to the peace conference invitations, all of which are favorable.

THE CHARGE WITHDRAWN.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—The action against Senator Choquet for disposing of some land to the Government has been withdrawn. The transaction happened before he became Senator.

VACANCY IN HIGH COURT.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—At a cabinet meeting this afternoon Justice MacLennan of the High Court of Ontario was appointed to Supreme Court of Canada. The vacancy was created through the resignation of Justice Nesbitt. The meeting was called for this purpose. Court meets next week. The vacancy on the High Court bench caused by Justice MacLennan's promotion, has not yet been filled.

KILTIES FOR WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Oct. 4.—In reply to an influential deputation of Scotchmen who waited upon him at the R. C. M. R. barracks, this afternoon Sir Frederick Borden practically agreed that the deputation's request for the formation of a local Highland regiment would be complied with by the Militia Department provided the promoters undertook to supply the special kit and uniforms necessary. The Minister also said that the Government proposed to greatly increase the militia strength throughout the Dominion.

A WISCONSIN BLAZE.

Rhinlander, Wis., Oct. 5.—Fire in the lumber district here last night destroyed property valued at $60,000, and rendered 400 persons homeless. The fire started in the lumber yard of the Brown Bros. Lumber Co. Limited and after sweeping the yard clean, spread to the Robin Lumber Co.'s yards which were entirely destroyed. A high wind was blowing which carried the fire into the residential district adjoining the lumber yards, destroying seventy-five dwellings and 40,000,000 feet of lumber. Rhinlander is a town of 4,000 inhabitants.

PUBLIC HOSPITAL SUNDAY

Next Sunday will be observed in the churches of the city as Public Hospital day. Envelopes will be placed in the pews, in which those desiring to donate to the funds of the hospital may place their donation. The board is doing its best to cope with the growing needs of the institution and asks the cordial support of all citizens. They request that the donations be as liberal as possible.

ALL SAINTS YOUNG MEN'S CLUB

The public meeting of the club previously announced to be held tonight will, on account of the charity ball, be postponed until Tuesday next, the 10th inst., when it is hoped a good number will be present. The object of the club is to provide a reading room with amusements in the shape of chess, dominoes and other games during the winter evenings. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in the schoolroom adjoining the church and the committee hopes a good many will manage to attend and would specially invite newcomers and strangers to the town.

STRATHCONA COUNCIL

HELD A REGULAR SESSION

Town Will Advise for a Secretary Treasurer—Deputations will be Sold

Strathcona, Oct. 4.—A regular meeting of the town council was held in the council chamber at 8 p.m. Present—Mayor Davies and Councillors Douglas, Pollard, Sheppard, Richards and Carmichael.

The minutes of meetings of Sept. 6 and September 12, 19 and 25, were read and adopted on motion of Messrs. Sheppard and Douglas. Mr. Jackson in behalf of the fire department band, asked the council to pay for a new trombone, price $60. Messrs. Sheppard and Carmichael moved that the account be paid—Carried.

Communications were received from Geo. A. Stinson & Co. re water works debentures and also from the Ashdown Hardware Co. re lead pipes. Moved by Messrs. Sheppard and F. Richards that the communication be received and dealt with—Carried.

Discussion followed about the wisdom of floating debentures and it was decided to advertise for tenders for the sale of $75,000 water works debentures (50-year coupon system), interest 4 1/2 per cent.

Accounts were presented as follows: B. Thomas, R. Brown, R. Palmer, public works pay rolls; Ole Pearson, $2.60; P. Main, $2.60; Geo. Mail, $3.90 (P. W. Pay 13); A. Patterson, $2.88; J. Carmichael, $2.92; T. A. O'Brien, $1.38; Douglas & Co., $5.75; secretary-treasurer, telegrams, $1.15; Canada General Electric Co., Ltd., $14.61; J. D. Hutton, $3.90; Dominion Express Co., $3.25; Insp. W. Salts and Measures, $3.00; Evans and Robinson, coal and slack, $25.00; Jno. Ferman, $9.00; J. T. Blowsy, $39.65; Strathcona Chronicle, $13.50; Can. Oil Co., Ltd., $21.73; J. D. Hutton, $12.50; Dietz & Main, estimate, No. 2, power house, $2600.00; Dietz & Main, estimate No. 5, water works and sewers, $837; Phasay & Batson, estimate (final) on deep well, $1157.27.

These accounts were referred to the several committees for examination and payment.

The mayor and councillor Douglas were appointed a committee to interview Hon. A. C. Rutherford with reference to the hog ranch bill and the blind line road with a view to having them put in a proper condition for travel.

Bylaw No. 133, appointing F. C. Jamieson secretary-treasurer during the absence of Hon. A. C. Rutherford was introduced and read three times and passed.

Estimates No. 2, of Dietz & Main on power house, $2600, estimate No. 3, Dietz & Main on water works and sewerage, $837.40 and estimate (final) Phasay & Batson, on deep well, $1157.27 were ordered.

It was decided to advertise for a competent accountant to take the position of secretary-treasurer of the town for the coming year at a salary of $1200 per annum, duties to commence January 1, 1906. Information as to duties may be obtained from the chairman of the finance committee. Applications to be received up to November 1, 1905.

Bylaw No. 134, authorizing the borrowing of $50,000 from the Imperial Bank of Canada was introduced and read.

The public works committee reported that the lumber in the box on McDonald hill was useless for the town's purposes and they had given permission to use it to make a sidewalk in front of private premises on Main street. The report was adopted. The council then adjourned.

Sixty-five head of extra fine beef cattle arrived yesterday for the Vogel Meat & Packing Co. here to be killed and sent in the morning cars to Winnipeg. This is the initial shipment and it is hoped a growing market for Alberta beef can be worked up. A runaway accident occurred here yesterday afternoon. A man driving along main street seemed to lose control of his horse, which rapidly increased its speed. The man was thrown out of the conveyance and received a bad shaking up, and a broken nose.

Several men came down last night from Walter's camp.

AUSTRIAN PARLIAMENT

HAS ANOTHER ROUGH HOUSE

Turbulent Member Apologized But Insisted on Speaking When Another Uproar arose

Vienna, Oct. 5.—A disorderly scene occurred in the lower house of Parliament yesterday, resulting in a suspension of the sitting amid general uproar. Later the sitting was resumed when the president said he expected an expression of regret from Von Sternberg. The Baron in apologizing insisted that he had spoken within his rights though certainly he had not been polite. The President withdrew the Baron's right to speak but later he attempted to continue amid the wildest uproar. The President was unable to secure order and adjourned the house once again.

RAILWAY RUMOR

Instead of hauling passengers and freight to Strathcona and then giving them over to the E. Y. & P. R. the C. P. R. have practically completed an arrangement to haul right through to Edmonton. They will have freight and shipping offices here and will greatly reduce their staff in Strathcona. This means that the extra charge hitherto paid by the Edmonton importers on each car from Strathcona will be paid by the C. P. R. The change will probably be affected by October 15.

THE FUTURE OF EDMONTON
(Toronto Globe)

One of the incidental results of the ceremonies connected with the inauguration of the two new provinces in the North West is the increased and not undeserved attention given to the city of Edmonton. In spite of the comparative newness of the whole region as a home for a permanent population Edmonton itself is a place of some antiquity. It was from an early period in the operations of the Hudson's Bay Company one of their more important trading posts. It became so on account of its favorable natural situation as regards both distance from other great deposits and the physiographic character of the locality. These peculiarities still tell in its favor. It is far removed from Winnipeg which has captured the trade of a vast area to the west of it and it is the centre of a wide expanse of territory especially adapted to the practice of agriculture. Its site is both sanitary and picturesque, and it possesses other natural advantages which increase its fitness to become one of the great cities of this continent.

Not the least important of these advantages is its topographical relation to the great transportation routes either completed or projected. It is on the main line of the National Transcontinental Railway, which will in a comparatively short time be open for traffic from Winnipeg to the Rocky Mountains. It is on the main line of the Canadian Northern, which is no wall but completed from Edmonton to Lake Superior. It is the terminus of a branch of the Canadian Pacific which leaves the main line at Calgary and one of the most recent reports is to the effect that the Canadian Pacific company contemplates giving it a more direct and independent connection with the east, if not also with the west. It would certainly be good policy on the part of that great corporation to do so. Nothing can prevent Edmonton from becoming an important railway centre and the distributing point for the territory served by the transportation routes of which it is the converging point. In this respect its future is already absolutely assured.

In view of this consideration it is worth the while of all parties concerned in the future of Edmonton to see that nothing practicable is left undone to make it a model city as well as a great one. Now is the time to lay down the lines of its evolution, and to make ample provision for the future structure by giving it a good foundation. This should be a matter of interest not merely to the corporation of the city, but to the Government of Alberta of which it is the capital, to the Government of the Dominion, which still retains the administration of the public lands, and to the three railway companies which have to work out a modus vivendi between themselves and the city they will aid in developing. Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Winnipeg are all suffering and will always suffer from inconvenience and disadvantage on account of the want of foresight on the part of those who laid out their original plans. There is absolutely no reason why this error should be repeated in the case of Edmonton.

The nature of the country about it is known. The tide of immigration has set in. The volume of trade between east and west passing through it will be enormous. It will eventually occupy a prominent place in one of the world's greatest highways. It will be an educational as well as an industrial centre. There is nothing speculative or conjectural in its future, and, therefore provision may be made for it with confidence. The railways should be asked to co-operate in the erection and occupation of a single union station. Sites for public buildings and spaces for public recreation should be secured. If these important matters are not attended to now mistakes will be made which must be corrected hereafter at great and useless expense. They cannot receive attention too soon, hence if a well-thought-out plan is adopted the development of the city will be adjusted to it without either loss or friction.

CRICKET

The first match for the cup presented by R. Ochsner takes place next Saturday, Oct. 7th, on the exhibition grounds here, between the city and Fort Saskatchewan, both teams being now level with 7 points each to their credit.

The following side has been chosen by the selection committee (consisting of W. Richardson, H. B. Boyes and A. H. Jones) to represent Edmonton on that day:—P. Hardisty, H. Aldridge, H. B. Boyes (Captain), L. Howard, A. H. Jones, W. de V. Lemaistre, T. E. Neild, H. R. Mountfield, T. C. Strong, Itharm, E. Slocock, Rev. H. H. Wilkinson.

Umpire C. Lucas, scorer Rev. C. B. Beck.

The time of starting has not been fully settled but the match will probably commence at 11 o'clock.

is made are ideal.
We have a contented little community of our own, that is not worried by outside conditions. The wholesome, country-town life that we live, it is in the quality of our work.

Every employee in my factory has his whole heart in his work. From the oldest workman, who started with me when I had a small room for a factory, a big bunch of enthusiasm and a high idea of quality, down to the lad who just joined us the other day, every one is putting the best that is in him into his work.

Under such conditions it is no wonder that my Pharaoh is the best-tasting smoke on the market. We are all working with the one object—to produce the best cigar possible.

I go to Cuba every year and buy the best tobacco produced. I know that every leaf that comes to my factory is right. My workmen see that every roll they give it will help make it a perfect, even-burning smoke. Its a combination that's hard to beat.

None genuine unless branded "Pharo." Price 10 cents.

USHERING IN A STATE

By E. W. THOMPSON.

(Boston Transcript)

The Saskatchewan "bottom," that flat of low land through which the swift gray river meanders, broadens to a mile's width between Edmonton and Strathcona, whose elevators tower as pinnacles beyond the bright flitting poplars of the southerly skyline. The plateau of towns and farming country is over two hundred feet above the flats. In at once creating and traversing them, the stream has swerved to its present channel on the south side of the bottom, leaving a great space of perhaps not less than five hundred acres which now bears grass, vegetable gardens, brick yards, hotels, houses and the fair grounds, with its grand and judges' stands, cattle pens, race track and the usual structures of large American and Canadian agricultural exhibitions. From Edmonton City you look down upon this flat as from the top-most seats of an amphitheatre more vast than ever man imagined he could emulate by building.

On the highland's edges a few spectators whom age, or infancy, or flesh, or decrepitude forbade to descend the long steps to the fair grounds, yesterday could be described by us below, looking down on the throng, and on the pretty pageant of Alberta's inauguration day. They saw the tents of two hundred of the famous Northwest Mounted Police as forty little cones of white on the farther green. They saw the roof of the grand stand concealing five thousand people, packed tight as sardines. A standing mass of four thousand more stretched far about the covered platform on which Lord Grey and Sir Wilfrid Laurier were to speak. The red-coated, wide-hatted, heavy-armed police were drawn up on the race track and grass as the clock's hands passed 11 a.m. Bunting, red and white and blue, dreamed abundantly on the lower level, the visible houses on the plateau's edge were pretty with evergreens and with flowers in astonishing profusion, with the three colors of all English-speaking people, and with little innumerable Canadian ensigns. From the valley, as far as the eye could see along the highland's summit, the infinite arena was punctuated by the broad banner of Great Britain, blown out on a solid-sealing field, supreme over the enormous visible world. Beneath it were ranged, even there people of every continent, and of multitudinous races—American, European, Asiatic, Australian, African—orderly, law-abiding, contented, free, safe, kind, mingling in the good western fraternity. These people were invariably so healthy, wholesome and prosperous in looks that the crowd amounted to a revelation of the realized wealth, as well as of the richer potentialities of this north land. Elation, a new hope for the perfect-ability of mankind, a confidence that one is witnessing the beginning of the dreamed regeneration of our race, might well come of watching the ways of this throng. They are so amiable to one another, the strong so ready to help the little and the old and the weak to good points for seeing the show, and all so uplooking and glad in their movements, and bold and kind at once! This concert, this effect, comes surely of the essential equality existing where plenty reigns, and where foresight perceives no reason to fear future scantiness.

Insolence, impudence, pretentiousness, the cowed, the strutting, the abashed, even the consciously rural, none of these all are to be seen. By the commingling of all sorts of people in so new, orderly and rich a country all have such practice in "meeting up" with strangers that they possess and evince a cosmopolitan feeling, a sense of feeling easy at home in their world. This peculiar characteristic of the crowd is certainly not to be seen in a throng anywhere in the older parts of America, or Canada, any more than it is to be observed in England's multitudes, half-breeds were few, Gallians innumerable, flax-haired Scandinavians and Germans many, English and Scotch and Americans abundant, Ontarians and Maritimers predominant. The description I have given is absolutely true of them all.

THE SPLENDID PARADE.

By and by, a little after eleven o'clock, the spectators up there on the ramparts, saw the mounted redcoats move in fours, in platoons, in company column, through the manoeuvres of an exceedingly pretty review first passing the gubernatorial stand at a walk, then at a trot, then at a handgallop of cavalry. The men are mostly big, many beefy; they're straight-backed and pounded up and down in their regulation saddles, their extraordinary average of skill in riding, shown by the fair alignment they contrived to maintain. The proud, stout little horses were never assembled previous to the last four days. These men and mounts are commonly distributed in squads of two, three and four at intervals over the whole length and breadth of the vast territories now emerging to the provincial status. They arrived here on Monday fast, quite untrained in company evolutions. Since then drill has been every day's hard work. Yesterday the accoutrements and facings of the buff and brass and black and white were as clean and fine as the new red dress coats. Men and horses were working their individual heads as it were, almost wholly without the mechanical, precise and somewhat instinctive concert that comes of frequent exercise in common. Yet they moved together in a manner that would not discredit good regular cavalry. I have seen and ridden with veteran squadrons of long practice in war that could not keep their lines so well in churning at paces faster than a walk. The force was big enough to impress the crowded pavilions with that sense of the irresistibility of mounted men which foot-slogging people have doubtless felt since ages before Snatcher set about carving out new provinces with fire and javelin and arrow and sword and sling. Witnessing the weight and momentum of combined horse and man it seemed to grandstanders that there could be nothing for opposing infantry of double their numbers but to run and take their shaming as they went. But yonder, on the other side of the race course, a few dozen South African veterans, of the Strathcona Horse were ranged on their mounts, men of much experience in how little horsemen can do against dismounted men who take reasonable cover and shoot straight and far. Some gray, busy-bearded, solemn-faced Boer-looking half-breeds waited that fine cavalry with an undeniable air of having tried its strength twenty years ago. Father Lacombe, the veteran, venerable, white-haired missionary of the north, looked on with unforgetting pity and sadness in those eyes that saw his people trampled and scattered and made as strangers on the great plains where Indians, they had so long taught to regard the Englishmen as their best friends.

ALBERTA BORN: THE VICEROY. Before high noon the pretty parade was ended and the cavalry drawn up in line facing the governor's stand and the grandstand. Gunfire. A royal salute. Alberta born. Short swearing in ceremony. Lieutenant-Governor Bulyea, a plump man of the thin people, was ordered to give his new rank and pay. Then Lord Grey had his turn. A straight, slim, upstanding, cheerful, sane, governor-general if ever Canada had one. Even the deaf could well hear his strong, clear manly voice. It rang rang out as surprisingly as that of the present Prince of Wales. Lord Grey is a reconciler worthy of his most politic ancestor. He contrives to evince sympathy with the local patriotism Canadians are apt to call national, yet never flinches in asserting the imperial sentiment which a Governor-General is in duty bound to stimulate. If Great Britain could get such viceroys everywhere, the empire of equal independence under the Old Crown, might fully materialize soon. A former military governor-general is credited with having expressed privately his opinion that "the right way to rule Canada is through a major-general with a horse-whip". No such silly notion could enter Lord Grey's cool head. He appears essentially civilian, alert, cock-sure, and yet not wrapped up in himself. I heard a pleasant Yankee drawl near me "Looks like there must be considerable git-up-an-git in his ribs. Talks up kind of like human man, anyhow." But the pleasantest thing, in the minds of many of his audience, must have been that he appeared on excellent terms with his Premier.

For after all, it was Sir Wilfrid, the lucky, the more enduring, the sagacious, the man who first understood that the fortune of Canada was to be made in the West, he whose administration had poured in fire money, and railways and people, and abounding hope that the Edmonton audience most desired to hear. They had seen him get up and call the cheers, and give the three cheers, with that hearty enjoyment of the action and the harrumphing which can never be counterfeited by one whose heart is not still young. It is always an advantage to Sir Wilfrid to be preceded by other speakers.

The Cream Separator that is the Cheapest in the End.

There are some folks who are everlastingly trying to get "something for nothing." They buy a wagon at a "bargain" price because the agent says it's "just as good." And then, after a few months, when the tires and spokes have all loosened up, they miss the wagon.

Price not the only difference.

It's the same way with cream separators. You can buy many other separators for less money than the U. S. Cream Separator sells for, but before you've finished paying for the expenditure you'll find price isn't the only difference. The cheaper separators soon get out of adjustment because built of cheaper material by inferior manufacturing methods; they consume twice the necessary amount of oil; they have a bowl that will not run true, and does not skim clean. The repairs in the first few years would pay the difference for the U. S. Cream Separator.

Durability is important.

The U. S. Cream Separator has stood the test of time. Many of them have been in use for 10 years, and cost less than a dollar for repairs. They run easy, skim cleaner than others, have a simple bowl, enclosed gears, and a convenient low supply can.

The Vermont Farm Machine Co., of Bellows Falls, Vt., have printed in a handsome booklet a few of the thousands of letters from satisfied users of the U. S. Cream Separator. This booklet will save you money when you buy a separator, and a post card will bring it to you.

To insure prompt deliveries and to save freight charges for their Canadian customers, they ship from their warehouses at Montreal, Sherbrooke, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver, but all letters should be addressed to Bellows Falls, Vt.

Ushering in a State

You see him sympathizing with them eager that they shall get a full share of the orator's great cake—applause. That puts spectators in a humor to receive him well. He has won them before he begins.

THE PREMIER'S WELCOME

The Premier looked, the drawing Yankee remarked, "kind of peaked." He was worn by travelling and public care. On these trips every man who loves him seeks to shake his hand and "give him the good word." They are so very numerous and he is so responsive, for he likes it, that his physical energies are taxed. Fortunately his recuperative powers are so great that one night of good sleep off the rail, puts him in fresh color and actually in the appearance of fresh flesh. Last night he slept on the rail, after a journey of lengthy delays, for the C. P. R. service has been greatly taxed by the enormous pressure of celebration crowds, and speakers, contractors, laborers, harvesters, Portland fair passengers, and increased transcontinental traffic, all seeking transportation at once. At first the Premier's voice seemed tired, hoarse, but a few sentences put that right. Immediately the audience forgot concern for his weariness in humorous enjoyment of the political speech which circumstances, as he remarked, quite precluded him from making. The quick Westerners made it for themselves as soon as he mentioned that he had not been here since 1894. That was two years before his Administration began, though he didn't say so. Those who remembered the patient, long-suffering hamlet of twelve years ago, and the thousands more who knew only from old timers how swiftly it changed after 1896, to the electric-lighted, granite-paved, well-built, prosperous Edmonton of today, after fifteen years, got a little more to heart. Immigrants in, could easily make his eschewed political speech "in their minds." They did so while he discoursed in most unpartisan terms. If he had taken the least unfair advantage of the situation, they would have "soured on him," my Yankee remarked. It was all right for him just to mention 1894, and reckon that, as the Scotch say, they would "be quick at the uptake." But his second speech, in response to the request that he address the French present in their own language, was even more adroit, tactful, and to the public taste. He responded in English, all but a few words at the end. That was enough for the French, the far more numerous English-speaking audience were spared some weariness and puzzlement, a number of pitfalls had been gracefully avoided and everybody was pleased with the good, fatherly advice he gave to the people peculiarly his own. Previously he had addressed himself directly to the place where a crowd of American settlers were assembled, talking British to them straight, inviting them warily to come in fully and share the country evenly according to their numbers. "He got on 'em where they live," said by drawler, chuckling with enjoyment. "Oh, say, ain't he smooth."

SIR GILBERT PARKER

Then came the comedy of the occasion. It was gratuitously furnished by Sir Gilbert Parker, a little man whose former slowness is a fond memory. For some days the western Canadian press had been somehow moved to publish a notice of his coming as a guest of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, a notice very delightful to those who love to observe the methods of climbing men. Perhaps one may safely wager that the same was carefully cabled to the English press, where it would find its way to a popular edition that the knight is truly the representative of one of his most familiar poets. The press agent had duly described Sir Gilbert as not only of the Imperial Parliament, and "the discoverer of the Northwest in literature," but as "ranked with Kipling and Stevenson"—he didn't mention by whom. On this promontory of fame and a wooden chair the distinguished person sat a little aside, and back on the platform, while Lord Grey, Sir Wilfrid, and Mr. Patterson, the eloquent minister of eustomies, delivered their neat and short remarks. Then a curious thing happened. Sir Gilbert figured very conspicuously as the only non-official person on those boards. Why was he there? Because in the rostrum of his nature he had presumed that he wouldn't be called upon to speak. So he told us in an aspect of elation surprise, when called up by the chairman, the mayor of Edmonton, a large-hearted man, who had endeavored to read the press notices, and

No more could he be expected to rival the preceding speakers in happiness and brevity. They had avowedly had lots of time to boil it down. ### Ushering in a State vision to his native country, his noble intentions in everything, his services—an Atlas with the empire on his vast shoulders. Incidentally, he referred to his book, "Pierre and his People," which purports to describe life, character, and traditions in a past Northwest. This was his discovery of the "Northwest in literature."—He modestly remarked that his "Northwest" readers might be his severest critics.

"And that's a very true observation," said an old-timer Scot of the fur trade. Indeed, people who know any part or period of Canada with which "the discoverer" has dealt always are his severest critics. Americans and Englishmen, reading his queer inventions and perceiving in them nothing like anything they have ever known or heard or dreamed of in life or human nature in any part of the world, are moved, by the author's fatuous seriousness and judicious avoidance of everything resembling humor to suppose they may represent correctly something that might have been some time in the unknown parts of Canada. Charles Lamb, in one of the Elia essays, remarked that the difference between the great and the little inventors in fiction or verse is that the great create what seems probable, true and solid, while the little set forth phantasies, unreal, unlike anything actual in the heavens above, the earth beneath or the waters under the earth. Some diligent observer of Sir Gilbert's progress through this vale of laughter and tears, may remember that, when charged with having located in Pontiac conditions utterly unlike the real, he gravely specified that he hadn't been dealing with the real but with an imaginary Pontiac. By that effective method of meeting criticism a writer might cheerfully disavow assertions that the entire body of his work lacked any correspondence to the actual world. But to treat Parker seriously as a novelist would be to rank him as do the kind publishers' advertising departments. He is by judicious critics of literature, highly estimated as a business man, and by more or less judicious business men as an exemplar of great literature. Certainly no reputation so illustrious has been found on reading "Northwest" since the brief poet Montgomery expired under Macaulay's awful pen.

The Edmonton celebration was extremely well done. It included a concert which assembled five thousand people, perhaps one-fifth of them in full dress. It included a ball in the same building, where some eight hundred young people in full dress were on the floor. There Lord Grey won everybody's heart, quite abandoning attitude, mingling freely with the assembled, and shaking an expert leg with every appearance of hearty enjoyment. In every item, the vitality of the city was perfect, the visitors owned the town, even the stages (corros, and the "Edmonton" also refused often to charge for trips to the points of popular interest, and every sort of show was free except to the citizens themselves. Their organization was beyond criticism; the spectacle prepared one of singular beauty, a procession of several thousand school children was itself worth seeing miles to see. In short, a city that is run by plain, efficient Western business men co-operated with them in a spirit of civic pride worthy of Seattle itself, and the result was a general pleasure that must be joyfully memorable to the participants as long as their memory lives.

Regina, Saskatchewan, Sept. 14.—With many of the Edmontonites, I came back here, 590 miles to see Edmonton's magnificent blow-out, possibly surpassed. Tonight everybody agrees that Regina has been disgraced by the affair. The weather was warm, delightful, every prospect furnished by nature pleased, only the entertainment was shabby. By some incredible foolishness the throng who came to see Lord Grey and the Premier were charged fifty cents admission to the fair grounds. Hundreds, probably thousands of visitors had to choose between open air sleeping, and wretched quarters on hay mattresses in tents, or in structures of new boards, members of Parliament, pressmen, merchants, business people of all sorts, here on purpose to honor the occasion, were rushing about half the day trying to find some member of the reception committee who might tell them where to go, or how to get there. There was a total lack of any appearance of organization, any sense of beauty or civic display. Many private individuals did themselves credit by illuminating their premises with and from these comes no small part of the general disgust at their city's wretched figure. It would seem unaccountable were it not that the civic affair was entrusted, so the Regina "all go, to an incompetent head. At least, as many features of the Edmonton celebration were necessary to be repeated here, there was danger that the whole thing at Regina would seem stale. It has been several stages worse. It would be of small importance if it did not affect the choice of a capital for the new province. Saskatchewan, Regina is the provisional capital. Choice of a permanent one will be within the next few months. Many of the respective candidates are among the multitudes of disgusted. Thus, the Regina tell me, the town has received "a black eye," and the prospect that Saskatoon, 150 miles northward, will be voted the right place for the official buildings and civic service of Saskatchewan would appear much improved.

For Family Colds

A reliable cough and cold cure should be always in the house ready for use the moment the first symptoms appear. It is always easy, cheaper and better to check a cold in the very beginning.

Shilo's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, has been tested for thirty-three years, and tens of thousands of homes in Canada and the United States to-day are never without it.

A dealer writes: "Shilo's Consumption Cure is without doubt the best remedy for Coughs and Colds on the market. Once used, my customers will buy no other.—L. Elsey, Nanawagan, Ont." If it were anything but the best would this be so? Try it in your own family. If it does not cure, you get back all it cost you. "We take all the chances. Neither you nor your dealer can lose. Isn't that E-Z? 25c. is the price. All dealers in medicine sell."

BIRCH LAKE NEWS

Harvest Completed and Ready for Threshing a Week Since

[Correspondence]

Gilpin, Sept. 25.—The warnings of nature are now to be seen on every hand. The wild rose bush leaves have turned to red and gold, the poplar and willows are beginning to shed their yellow leaves, telling us that summer is waning and autumn is here.

The bountiful harvest with which this district has been blessed is now safely stacked. The numerous stacks yards through the settlement remind one who has travelled through some parts of Scotland and England at this time of the year, of the corn yards of the old country, where dozens of stacks are to be seen built and thatched, with such care near the farm steadings.

The potato crop throughout the district is the best in the memory of the oldest settler. Councillor Edwin R. Downs of 50-12, has an exceptionally fine crop. He gathered a patent pail full from one hill, some of which would weigh nearly a pound.

Threshing will be the next order of things. Several outfits have promised to come through the district, and there are many anxiously waiting for them now. While the weather is fine there is no doubt as to how the grain will turn out. It was safely harvested under a that of rust or damage of any kind and fully matured in first class condition.

A. F. Moody, one of the pioneer settlers near Gilpin, who has only been three years in the country, expects to thresh three thousand bushels of wheat, oats and barley, another proof of what industry, pluck and perseverance will accomplish in Alberta in so short a time. The settlers are now turning their attention to disking and back-setting their land for next year's crop.

Geo. Dodge, blacksmith, is building an addition to his house this fall, which is one of the best in the settlement. He has a beautiful growth of valuable timber on the south slope of Forty-nine conlee, and a spring of water, clear as crystal, which alone is worth a thousand dollars on any farm. Mr. Dodge and his wife are very popular with the people around Gilpin for their generosity and hospitality.

Mr. Covey, 50-12 has seven acres in fall wheat, which looks strong and vigorous, and ought to stand the winter well from its present advanced appearance.

The messrs. Sioman, who came here from Clover Bar last spring, are giving their new frame house the last finishing touches.

Mr. A. W. Bonham, land guide at Dinwoodie, is busy finishing his new house. He has been drawing lumber and shingles from Edmonton lately for its completion. The selection of Hon. A. C. Rutherford, as premier of the province has given genuine satisfaction to a large majority of the settlers of the district. Many of them know him professionally as their legal adviser and always found him honorable and reliable. Vermillion will send Mr. McCauley to the legislature to strengthen his hands.

There is a pioneer in this district who can justly claim the title of an old timer. R. Dinwoodie has been in the west for over twenty years, as farmer, commissioner and justice of the peace. He is in sympathy with the wants and needs of the people of this country, and being a man of sterling integrity of character, a stalwart Liberal of the old school and a faithful loyal worker for his party, he was favorably spoken of as the Liberal candidate for Vermillion last July.

Rev. W. S. Bradley, the popular Methodist student who had charge of this district for the past two years, left last week to pursue his course in Alberta college, Edmonton. His many friends here wish him every success and hope to see him back again next season.

The rail road is all finished now, through this settlement and those who have been inspecting it say that it is one of the smoothest and best built roads in the Dominion. The very best material is used in the construction, the ties are laid at a uniform distance apart, they are of the best quality, as well as the rails and spikes. The company is not sparing money or labor, seemingly, to make the C. N. R. a first class road. The councillors of Townships 48 and 49 are busy opening a main road which will extend to the C. N. R. railway, where a station and town
